Overall Inspection Comments

ALLEGED COMPLAINT: I ordered dinner for my family from Chop-Chop Wok. As I was eating, I felt something poking the inside of my mouth and I pulled out a piece of metal! It appears it is a piece of steel wool.--INSPECTOR COMMENTS:

Cook preparing orders used steel wool to scrape woks with hot water after preparing each customer order. 2 steel wools observed in use at wok station that were excessively frayed with old food debris. EHS explained to PIC when steel wool pads begin to look worn, it is time to change them out. Steel wools in use were discarded and replaced with new ones. PIC stated he will rotate steel wools every 2-3 days to prevent physical cross contamination.

EHS did not observe any physical contaminants in foods during inspection however steel wools were frayed leading to potential contamination.

Complaint valid without fee. If you have questions, you may reach Rabea at 702-759-0639
